

twenty years under tin* weight of the misfortunes that oppressed her, had anxiously looked forward to the happy day which she now saw dawning/ Berthier uii^ht justly have said for "ten years;*" hut at all events, even had h«« spoken the truth, it was ill plared in the mouth of a man whom the Emperor had constantly loaded with favors. The Emperor Alexander also went to Complete to meet Louis XVIII., and the two momuvhs dined together.

I did not go to (Joinpiegne beraust* the business whirh I had constantly to execute did not permit me. tu leave Paris for so long an interval as that journey would have required, but I was at St. Ouen when Louis XVII I. arrived on the Ud of May. There I had to congratulate myself on lwintf remembered by a man to whom I was fortunate enough to rentier some .service at Hamburg. As the King entered the union through which he, had to pass to go to the dining-room M. Hue recognizing me said to his Majesty,  There is M. de Bmu'rienne." The King then stepping up to me said, "Ah! M. de Hour-rienne, I am very glad to net¹ you. I am aware of tin* services you have rendered me in Hamburg and Paris, and I shall feel much pleasure, in testily ing my gratitude/'¹

At St. Ouen Louis XVI 1 1. promulgated the- declaration which preceded the (Charter, and which repeated the sentiments expressed by the King twenty years U*fori*, in the Declaration of (Palmar. It wan also at St. Ouen that project of a Constitution wan presented to him by the Senate in which that body, to justify in *ft remix itn titln <if t*ouHi»rvativ*», stipulated for the prentirvation of it» r«? vi*um*H unt f*n«ii»w-ments.

On the 3d of May Louis XVIII. made Mn Molt»mn i*iif,niiiri* into Paris, the DueliesHe irAiig<»tiII\iiii* ln»ing in tin* rarrtagi* with, the King. Hin Maji»sty prcK<»i*tli><l fir<t t« Nuin* I)am<\ On. arriving at the Pont Neiif hi* naw tin* mcitli*! of tin* Matin* of Henri IV. replaced, on the pwluHtal of whirh ap{M*art*(! tin* following words: Ludovifo rfduet^ Htmnntx rn/iriFiu, wliieli were suggested by M. do Lal'y-To! l<»ndai, wen* rpinttiil tm tlmt

the Berviora wndt'twl at Hamburg iui» XVIII when he was in the Horv !<<<»(Napotaon. flitftu m m